

HEAR APPEAL IN A ROAD DAMAGE CASE, BRISTOL TWP.

Case of Edward G. and Lena Steele Against The County

JURY VIEWED PROPERTY

Appeal Filed After Certain Amount Was Set For Damages

DOYLESTOWN, June 1.—For the first time in several years an appeal from the findings of a jury of view that assessed damages in a road construction case, was before the county court this week.

The appeal is being heard in the Court of Common Pleas in the case of Edward G. Steele and Lena Steele, his wife, of Bristol township, against the County of Bucks.

A jury to hear the appeal was drawn before President Judge Hiram H. Keller and Judge Calvin S. Boyer, who then directed the jury to go to Bristol township and personally view the property alleged to have been damaged in the construction of Traffic Route No. 142 and Legislative Route No. 69113.

Members of the jury include the following men who served as jurors in criminal court last week and who were summoned to appear for jury duty in this case: George J. Daily, Coopersburg R. D.; Alden M. Collins, Doylestown; Harry M. Detweiler, Trumbauersville; Robert T. Ely, Newtown R. D.; Howard Funk, New Hope; William G. Herridge, Doylestown; William L. Hoffman, Eddington; Elmer Harvison, Bristol; Reuben H. Myers, Point Pleasant; Daniel McGuire, Morrisville; Joseph H. Thomas, Quakertown; and William Ward, Morrisville.

Members of the jury of view appointed in 1932 to assess damages included Webster Grim, of Doylestown; George Reichley and Alfred Wildman. The jury met on August 16, 1932, and submitted their findings to the Court at which time they agreed on a certain amount of damages to be paid to Steele and his wife, from which decision the latter filed an appeal, which is followed by the right to have the affair aired in court before another jury of 12 members.

Members of the jury were transported to Bristol township by bus, in company with the Bucks County Commissioners and others interested in the case. The attorney representing the county in the appeal is County Solicitor Mark Thatcher, of Perkasie. Steele is represented by former County Solicitor Henry A. James, Doylestown.

Home Economics Worker Sponsors Many Projects

DOYLESTOWN, June 1.—The Bucks County home economics extension worker from State College, Miss Rhondana Armstrong, has her time occupied this week with home economics conference, clothing clubs, and staging of 4-H Club plays.

Yesterday Miss Armstrong gave instruction in making aprons and underwear to the first and third year 4-H Clothing Club girls at Plumsteadville.

Today she will divide her time between three groups, two of which are 4-H Club organizations. At 9 a. m. there was a meeting of the Hilltown club at the home of Edna Detweiler, Blooming Glen. After lunch she will attend the meeting of the East Rockhill clothing club at the home of Mrs. D. C. Cole on the Ridge road. A pajama project is nearing completion.

Decorative finishes will be the subject at a discussion on home arrangement at the home of Mrs. Clara Myers, of Dublin, which will be attended by a young women's group.

For the purpose of checking and fitting patterns for school dresses, the Springfield 4-H Club will hold a meeting at 1.30 Friday in the West Springfield school house. Concluding the day's activity, Miss Armstrong will attend a meeting of the Upper Makefield Liberty Club at the home of John Whitesall on Friday evening at 8.45 o'clock.

Representing Bucks county, Miss Armstrong will attend a conference of home economics workers at Easton Saturday morning. In the evening she will attend the performance of several plays given by Plumsteadville township 4-H Club members at the Grange hall.

Monday afternoon the Richboro 4-H Clothing Club, which meets at the Richboro school, began their first and second year project on clothing.

Club Gardeners To Conduct A Garden Tea On Friday

The Travel Club Gardeners will have a garden tea at the Travel Club home, Friday, at three p. m. There will be a musical program, followed by an illustrated talk on highway beautification by division forester T. Russell Albright.

All interested in beautifying this community are invited to be present. Refreshments will be served; and a silver offering will be appreciated.

INTERNATIONAL MONEY STANDARD ONE OF AIMS

Congress; Many Suggestions

SILVER PROBLEM IS UP

(This is the third of a series of five articles in which International News Service surveys the problems to be considered by the World Economic Conference, opening in London on June 12. Today's article deals with Monetary and Credit Policy, a question which has been thrown in sharp relief by the abandonment of the gold standard by the United States.—International News Service.)

By H. K. Reynolds
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 1.—(INS)—Establishment of a sound international monetary standard is regarded as of primary importance in connection with any world economic settlement.

The London Conference, as the experts have pointed out, will have to consider the restoration of some form of the gold standard, but this problem is closely bound up with questions of the stability of prices and costs as regulated by international standards of value.

The United States is expected to present some far-reaching proposals regarding the re-establishment of the gold standard, and conflict is bound to arise between Great Britain and the United States over exchange questions before an agreement is reached for a new valuation of the dollar and the pound sterling.

To facilitate its work on monetary questions, the conference will have before it the following suggested conditions for restoring the gold standard on an international scale:

(1) A series of measures to make it possible for countries whose reserves are inadequate to attain a satisfactory reserve position. With this general condition is linked a return of a reasonable degree of freedom in the movements of goods and services, and a policy of freedom in the foreign exchange markets and in the movement of capital.

(2) A general understanding to ensure better working of the gold standard in the future.

(3) Internal measures in every nation to restore economic equilibrium through adjustments of revenue and expenditure and the creation of healthy conditions in internal money and capital markets.

Recognizing the difficulties for countries which are off the gold standard to return to the gold standard at an appropriate rate of exchange, so long as gold prices are unstable, the League of Nations financial experts point out that experience of the past ten years has shown that the restoration of the gold standard at a rate of exchange either too high or too low presented grave disadvantages, from the national as well as the international point of view.

On the other hand, fluctuating exchanges affect gold prices, and hamper monetary and economic policies. Confronted with this problem, it is expected that the policy of the Conference will tend toward measures to bring about the establishment of a stable world monetary standard coincident with general recovery.

CHALLENGE ISSUED TO SCOUTS AND SCOUTERS AS DR. CARMON ROSS, OF DOYLESTOWN, SPEAKS AT CLOSING CEREMONY OF BUCKS CO. CAMPOREE

"Develop Ability to Say 'No' in Face of Temptation"

COMPETITIONS HELD

Bristol No. 7 Comes Through in Fine Style; First in Class D

For miles the panorama of the lower Delaware River Valley with all of its natural beauty of river, trees, flowers, rolling fields, and ancestral farmsteads was before the eyes of the 120 Scouts, and Scouters as Dr. Carmon Ross of Doylestown public schools addressed them at the conclusion of the Bucks County Boy Scout 1933 overnight camporee. The campers were seated in a semi-circle near the wood-line at the base of Bowman's Hill.

A challenge was issued to everyone present to accomplish three things through their lives. "Develop ability to say 'no' when temptation comes your way, it is a need that should be impressed indelibly on your mind. Carry forward your banner of 'service to others,' and never fail to exercise it at every possible opportunity. Last of all, a Scout is not a Scout unless he lives up to the principles of your Scout Oath and Law; at home, at church, and at play. Don't cheat your obligations."

Superintendent Ross spoke of his tour of Germany, and his experience with the youth movement of that country. He illustrated; that, by following the Scout program it was possible for everyone to enjoy the ideals of the German youth movement of the simple, and happy life. "Take an interest in nature, and its preservation. Man has made our cities but God has made our country. You are in a historic spot of great natural beauty which is being preserved under a careful program followed by the Washington Crossing Park Commission. By your excellent care of this site while you have been camping it will be a reminder to those who have visited you, and also to you, to always protect our countryside from depredation of careless traveling and campers. I am an admirer of your movement. We have Eagle Scouts in our school who are an example to others. I am delighted with their willingness to assume unpleasant tasks. More boys must be Boy Scouts to extend the ideals of this movement to many others." Following his remarks Doctor Ross planted the memorial tree to commemorate those who have fallen in behalf of the defense of the United States in preserving the national ideals of Liberty and Justice for all. He was assisted by junior assistant Scoutmaster Edward Fell, Jr., Hollisong; and senior patrol leader, Walter Carwithen, Doylestown.

Two lower Bucks County troops came through splendidly in the camporee. The successful competition of Bristol No. 7, Scoutmaster Wesley Hart; and Cornwells Heights No. 1, Scoutmaster Richard Hutcheson, was particularly noticeable. In Class A, Cornwells was a close second to Chalfont, the county champ. The nearby troop took a total of 843 points with Chalfont only safe by having 11 more

FILE FOUR LIBELS IN CO. COURT FOR DIVORCES

Cruel and Barbarous Treatment and Desertion Are The Allegations

ACTIONS ARE STARTED

Four libels in divorce have been filed in the Court of Common Pleas, at Doylestown.

In the first, Laurie Winter Rowland, the libellant, filed a suit against her husband, William T. Rowland, charging him with cruel and barbarous treatment. They were married February 21, 1911. The present address of the libellant is 216 Harper avenue, Morrisville.

Charging his wife, Stella Hallman, with cruel and barbarous treatment, J. Warren Hallman filed a libel of divorce in the Prothonotary's office. The couple were married by the Rev. Dr. J. H. Waldeich, pastor of St. Michael's Lutheran Church, of Sellersville, on November 1, 1925. Both respondent and libellant reside at 315 Lawn avenue, Sellersville.

Frederick Petrovics, the libellant, filed a libel in divorce against his wife, Emilie Petrovics, charging her with desertion. They were united in marriage in Philadelphia, August 26, 1916. The present address of the libellant is Milford, and that of the respondent is Philadelphia.

Alleging that her husband deserted her on March 24, 1930, Louisa C. McHale filed a libel in divorce against her husband, Philip Edward McHale. The respondent lives at 249 Tyler street, Trenton, N. J., and the libellant at Langhorne. They were married at Woodburn, 1929, in a civil ceremony, which was followed by a religious ceremony by a Catholic priest in a Trenton church later.

126 COUPLES GRANTED LICENSES TO WED, MAY

64 Couples Are Married In County Seat by Clergymen and Officers

DOYLESTOWN, June 1.—One hundred and twenty-six couples were granted marriage licenses in Bucks county during May and sixty-four couples were married in Doylestown by clergymen, justices of the peace, the Burgess and the President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks county.

The marriage license docket in the office of the Clerk of Orphans' Court showed that 77.38 per cent of the applicants were non-residents of Bucks county, most of them coming from Philadelphia and from Trenton and other New Jersey towns. This is the largest percentage of non-resident applicants on record for a single month in two years.

The total of 126 couples for May is also an increase in business transacted over May last year, indicating that the marriage license business is picking up steadily, with every indication that June—the bridal month—will also be up to last year, if not better.

Fifty-two of the applicants in May came from the city of Trenton and forty-three came from Philadelphia. The states of New Jersey, New York, Illinois, Maryland and Kansas in addition to Pennsylvania were represented on the docket.

The great majority of the couples ranged in ages between twenty-one and twenty-five, there being sixty-three males and eighty-three females in that age range. Only three of the 126 male applicants were under twenty-one while twelve of the female applicants had not yet reached that age. Nobody over sixty applied for a license in May, and only one between the age of fifty and sixty.

There was a noticeable decrease in the number of women with occupations securing licenses to wed, only sixty-two of the 126 being employed at the time they secured their marriage licenses.

Eight divorced men and five divorced women were among the applicants in May.

A license was granted to a New Jersey man who was twice married, aged fifty-three, and to a woman twice married, aged thirty-five. Another divorced man, forty-three, secured a license to wed a young woman twenty-eight. Twelve men and fourteen women had been married before.

Bristol, with sixteen applicants led the Bucks county towns, while Doylestown was second with five. Morrisville and Perkasie both had four, Quakertown three and Langhorne two. Only one marriage license was issued to residents of Sellersville, Yardley, Newtown, and New Hope in May.

Ages of the applicants grouped is as follows:

	Men	Women
Under 21 years	3	12
21 to 25 years	63	83
25 to 30 years	27	12
30 to 40 years	24	17
40 to 50 years	8	2
50 to 60 years	1	0

AGREE TO ADJOURN

Geneva, June 1.—The Disarmament Conference today agreed to adjourn for a few weeks as soon as the first reading of the British Arms plan is completed. The agreement stipulated, however, that the conference convene by July 3rd at the latest.

The first reading of the British plan is expected to be terminated by Saturday.

The agreement was reached after a serious crisis had been averted by the intervention of Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador-at-Large. The conference was faced with a stalemate owing to the refusal of the smaller powers to permit delegates of the big nations to work out a draft agreement independently. Arthur Henderson, chairman of the conference, proposed that he undertake formulation of the draft himself. Davis seconded this proposal and suggested a compromise under which Henderson would be empowered to "negotiate differences" while members of the steering committee worked on the draft itself.

COOLIDGE SPECIAL CLIENT

Washington, D. C., June 1.—Former President Calvin Coolidge was a special client of J. P. Morgan & Company after leaving the White House, in addition to purchasing its Standard Brands, Inc., stock at cut-rate prices. This information today was in the hands of the Senate Committee investigating Morgan's banking practices which threatened to furnish a fresh sensation when the details are made public by Ferdinand Pecora, special Senate counsel.

The startling inquiry was expected to show further revelations of secret Morgan clients, and to probe the Morgan interests in the field of public utilities.

Two fresh lists of Morgan "favored clients" were ready for publication; one naming prominent officials, bankers and business executives, allowed to purchase United Corporation stock at special market values through Drexel & Company, Philadelphia. The other list, the Morgan clients in the Niagara-Hudson Power Corporation stock.

SERVICE CLUBS TO MEET IN THIRD ANNUAL AFFAIR

Burlington and Bristol Groups
Will Dine Here
Tonight

TO BE MET AT BRIDGE

Tonight the third annual friendship dinner of the service clubs of Bristol and Burlington will be held here in the Methodist church.

The Burlington group will arrive at the Pennsylvania end of the Burlington-Bristol bridge at 6.30. Members of the Bristol clubs will meet them along with a motorcycle escort of Highway Patrolmen and Bristol police. The entire group will then proceed to the Methodist Church where a banquet will be served by the members of the choir.

A number of speeches will be made and Burgess Clifford L. Anderson will be the toastmaster. There will be a program of entertainment after which adjournment will be taken to the Grand Theatre where the men will be the guests of Edward Lynn, manager of the theatre.

The clubs participating are the Bristol Rotary, Bristol Exchange, and Young Men's Association, the Kiwanis Club of Burlington and the Young Men's Club of Burlington.

School Budget Adopted By Morrisville Borough

MORRISVILLE, June 1.—Morrisville School Board officially adopted its 1933-34 budget last night, calling for expenditures of $85,365 or $29,907 under last year's figures. Through the slash a reduction of $1 under the $4 per capita school tax is provided and the school property tax is dropped from 27 to 25 mills.

A number of minor recommendations made at a meeting Monday night with representatives of various civic organizations looking to reductions were included, the board announced, and all were given due consideration.

The large amount of the reduction, the greatest in many years, was made possible through 10 per cent. cuts in all teachers' salaries, elimination of music, art and health supervision in the grade schools for next year and the refinancing of school bonds last winter.

NOT A STOLEN CAR

By the Stroller

"I believe that car which stands in front of our house is a stolen machine," remarked a Radcliffe street resident to one of her household, recently.

"It has been there all night and I am going to call the police."

Call the police she did.

The license number of the car was checked and the name of the owner procured.

The Radcliffe street resident was advised of the name of the owner of the car.

"Why he is visiting with my son," she remarked. And so he was.

COMMITTS SUICIDE IN HIS GARAGE AT LANGHORNE MANOR

George L. Atkins, 41, of Trenton, Takes Life at Former Home

BY MONOXIDE GAS

Former Langhorne Real Estate
Man is Said to Have Been Ill

LANGHORNE, June 1.—A former Langhorne resident, George L. Atkins, 41, of Trenton, N. J., took his life at his former home, Langhorne Manor, yesterday afternoon.

The method used by Mr. Atkins, who was prominent in business and social circles, was monoxide gas. The tragedy occurred in the garage of Atkins' former home, Park and Hill avenues.

According to Trooper Stiles Smith, of the Morrisville State Police, who was summoned to the scene, Atkins took his life by attaching a garden hose to the exhaust pipe of his automobile and inhaling carbon monoxide gas. Dr. Guden Macmill, also attributed death to the poison fumes.

Atkins, vice-president and treasurer of the Colonial Land Company, had been suffering from a heart ailment since a severe attack of influenza several months ago and this, in the opinion of friends, may have prompted the act.

Atkins left his office at 242 East Hanover street, Trenton, at about 1.30 o'clock yesterday noon stating that he had a prospective purchaser for his old property at Langhorne Manor. The house, a three-story stone and frame structure with a large garage in the rear, had been unoccupied for three years.

Atkins apparently backed his car into the garage, attached one end of a garden hose to the exhaust pipe and inserted the other in a rear side window of the machine which had been lowered about an inch. All the other windows of the car were tightly closed.

George W. Crummer, Negro chauffeur and gardener on an adjoining estate, heard the motor of the car shortly after three o'clock and went to the garage to investigate. He found the garage door open and saw Atkins seated upright in the front seat of the car.

Crummer carried the victim into the yard and summoned Dr. Macmill, who used the methylene blue injection, a new discovery for the treatment of monoxide gas poisoning. The physician and Corporal R. D. Evans, of the Langhorne Highway Patrol, and Trooper Smith, who had also been notified of the case, worked over Atkins for more than an hour. Deputy Coroner W. Furman Young, Bristol, was summoned. He recorded the death as due to monoxide gas and had the body removed to a morgue.

Authorities say Atkins had evidently been dead for some time when his body was discovered. All of the water had boiled from the radiator of his car and the engine was very hot.

Atkins, formerly president of the Trenton Rotary Club, was a vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, a former president of the Trenton Real Estate Board. While a resident of Langhorne he was president of the board of education there.

Atkins' mother-in-law, Mrs. Harry Stewart, of Station Avenue, was notified soon after the finding of the body and she went to the scene of the tragedy. Mrs. Atkins came to Langhorne when informed of the death.

Atkins leaves three children, George L., Jr., 14 years old; Betty, 12 years old; and Barbara Ann, 6 years old.

Safety Meeting To Be Held Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow is to be observed as Safety Day by the children of the public and parochial schools of Bristol. A safety meeting is to be held in the Grand Theatre tomorrow afternoon, beginning at two o'clock. The children of the public and parochial schools will meet at the various school buildings and then proceed to the theatre.

The meeting which is being staged under the auspices of the Public Safety Department of which James L. McGee is superintendent, will be addressed by Burgess Anderson, Assistant District Attorney of Bucks County Edward Belster, Lieut. Thomas Hanley, Police Training School of Philadelphia, and Herbert J. Pascoe, of the P. R. R.

FEWER DIVORCES

Hard times can work great changes in the everyday existence of man. The visitor in America today hardly believes that it is the same America he knew four years ago. Depression is the greatest revolutionist.

The depression has done more to cure the so-called divorce evil than the viewers-with-alarm, with whom it is a pet horror, could accomplish in 10 centuries by their gasps and shudders. The divorce-minded are not to be talked out of the divorce courts; they can be kept by a lack of funds, which is depression's way.

There never was a time when divorces were easier to get than now, provided one has the wherewithal, and yet fewer decrees are being issued now than at any time of which there is official record, and the records run back to 1887.

Two factors are at work. Many who would like a divorce cannot garner the court and attorney fees, an easy thing for most people prior to 1929. The other factor is that while hard times break up many families they also bring closer together many married couples separated by the influences at work when there is too much prosperity. Thousands of husbands and wives, who could get along without each other in the good old days, now find that cooperation best assures their economic welfare. Love sometimes prefers to lock the window when poverty comes in the door.

All these things being so it would appear that the divorce-reformers can best obtain their ends by wishing the depression a long life.

GOOD-WILL VISITS

The Navy Department's decision to send Rear Admiral Taylor on a good-will visit to Japan should prove helpful in allaying suspicion among Japanese as to the United States purpose in keeping its fleet in the Pacific.

Strength is given this probability by the fact that intimations first were received from Japanese sources that a visit from Admiral Taylor would be welcome. Admiral Taylor is commander-in-chief of the American Asiatic fleet. He will make the trip aboard his flagship, the Houston.

The visit will be to return that of a Japanese training squadron commanded by Vice-Admiral Hyakutake which recently visited Pacific coast ports and now is on its way to Honolulu.

This exchange of good-will visits is an encouraging sign in connection with American-Japanese relations. The visits can serve a good purpose, and it is to be hoped that this will be a result.

Verbal pop bottles seem to be directed at the shortstop instead of at the umpire this season.

The meek shall inherit the earth. Considering the mess it's in, you couldn't wish it on anybody else.

We learn from adversity. The present, for instance, teaches us that prosperity wasn't the only cause for naughtiness.

There may be more divorces now, but there are fewer worn-out wives who wonder if it would be a sin to mix rat poison with the biscuit.

CROYDON

The May procession at St. Thomas' Aquinas Church, Sunday, was beautiful and spectacular. The children formed in line at the rectory and marched to the church. Miss Marie Siebold was "May Queen," attired in white with a long tulle veil, with Misses Theresa Cahill and May Hawthorn holding each end. Baby Vogt was flower girl and Miss Anne Maurer, the crown bearer. 150 children took part. The singing was beautifully rendered by the children under direction of the Sisters of the school.

In answer to many queries in regard to relief work, it is stated no relief worker receives remuneration for service. Such is given gratis for benefit of the unemployed. Flour is given by the Red Cross to unemployed and the State has no jurisdiction over same.

Invitations have been issued for the Hanley-Laugsenlager wedding, June 10th, at St. Luke's Lutheran Church. Miss Laugsenlager is now making her home with her sister, Mrs. W. Batholoma.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Schweiker entertained friends from Philadelphia for Memorial Day.

Frederick Curtis enjoyed visits from relatives from Wissinoming, Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. A. Wolfrum entertained relatives over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Vogt and family have moved to Holmesburg. Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson are entertaining relatives from Germantown.

Ludwig Ramus, New York, spent several days with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Close and daughter, Philadelphia, are enjoying their summer in College Park.

LANGHORNE

The residence of Raymond A. Acuff has received a fresh coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. James Heslet, Washington, D. C., were recent guests of Mrs. Samuel H. Longshore and Miss Marion Longshore.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fox, Camden, N. J., were Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer S. Black.

A new tin roof has been put on the house of Thomas La Rue.

Mrs. Ernest Gamble is quite ill. Mrs. William A. Spencer, Scranton, is visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Mrs. Sara E. Allen will be hostess to her card club June 5th.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held at the Langhorne M. E. Church, June 8th. All kinds of games will be enjoyed.

"STOLEN LOVE"

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

COPYRIGHT BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts in a house long run to seed. Joan, lonely and impressionable, falls in love with Bill Martin, whose social status is far beneath her own. The aunts plan to send her away to school. Bill is arrested, the innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, and Joan frantically asks her aunts for her railroad ticket so she can sell it to obtain money to bail him out. Joan confesses her love for Bill.

NOW GO WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XL

The things that Aunt Evvie said were lost on Joan. She hardly heard them. Just a word here and there . . . disgrace . . . after all we've done for you . . . brought you up so carefully . . . sacrificed . . . a common greasy mechanic . . . Jail-bird . . .

What did it matter what Evvie said? What did it matter what anyone said? Nothing mattered but Bill . . . and Bill was in prison and nobody to help . . .

Her back was against the wall. Nothing left to lose, everything to gain. She fought as she had never fought before in all her seventeen dominated years. She had defied Aunt Evvie, smashed her power. She'd die fighting, fighting her way to Bill, and then they'd be married, and go off somewhere together, hand in hand . . . they two, against the world . . .

Even when she knew that Aunt Evvie wouldn't give up the ticket she didn't despair. There was twelve dollars, she'd take that . . . borrow the rest somewhere . . . maybe Captain Horner . . .

Aunt Evvie saw she was losing. Joan was slipping through her fingers. Escaping her. She was deaf to reason, deaf to threats, she had no pride to fear . . .

"Very well," she said at last. Her rumbling bass was ominous quiet. "I've done my best. Now, I give up."

Joan's mouth that had been set and stony, twitched. She raised against the wall, suddenly tired, more tired than she had even been before. The floor seemed to rock under her feet, a dozen black-browed Aunt Evvies were whirling under her drooping eyes.

"I'm so—so sick!" she said in a small, surprised voice.

"You'll be sicker before I'm through with you. And it's your own fault. You were going East to Belle, a good, fortunate girl. Now you've made that impossible. You're still going—"

"I'm not!" Joan fought the dizzying to snap the answer still defiantly.

"All right then, you're not," Evvie's tone was ominously quiet again. "I shall not argue. You made one choice for yourself, now there is just one more left for you to make. Either you go to Belle with a letter which I consider it my duty to write her, or you go to the reform school. Take your choice."

"I won't go—you can't make me!"

"You can't fight her, Evvie—she's like Veronica," Babe whispered. "Oh, be reasonable, sister. Don't you see she doesn't care? No pride—like Veronica. Oh please, we don't want another scandal . . . Evvie, where are you going?"

"I am going," Evvie said, "to send for someone from the Juvenile Court. Thank heaven, Joan is still under age."

"Evvie, you wouldn't—" Babe quavered. "Oh, Evvie!"

There was no mistaking Evvie's purpose. It showed in every line of her set, square jaw, every inch of her stiff tailored shirt-waist and uncompromising black alpaca skirt. Evvie made no idle threats.

Out of her old-fashioned pocket she pulled a little fat gold watch.

"It is five minutes past eight," she said. "I will give Joan three minutes to make her choice. If I'm going to be disgraced by your conduct, I'm going to be disgraced doing my duty. Either you give me your word of honor to go quietly to the train without attempting to see this person again—or at eight minutes past eight I shall take the first step to . . . to have you brought before the Juvenile Court."

Heavy eyed, hardly comprehending at first, Joan looked from one to the other. Reform School. Then she would be powerless to help Bill . . . separated . . . never to meet again . . .

The fat gold watch ticked off the seconds. Aunt Evvie shifted impatiently. Now that her mind was made up she was anxious to be off, have it over with. Would the girl ever speak?

And just before the minute hand came to the little dot that was the eight minute mark, Joan surrendered. Complete, ignominious, unconditional surrender.

"I'll go on the train," she said.

Bill was in prison and nobody to help . . .

so low that Aunt Evvie wasn't sure she heard right.

"What's that. Speak up."

"I said I'll go on the train."

"Without trying to see that—that jailbird again?"

Joan nodded. The tears that gushed from her despairing eyes checked and blinded her. Paroxysms of hoarse, racking sobs shook her.

As Evvie's heavy hand achied to do.

"And you will go quietly, and not make any trouble?"

"Yes—"

"Then for mercy's sake, go wash your face!" Evvie concluded savagely. "Standing there crying like that without even trying to cover your face. I didn't care if you have any pride or decency at all!" Evvie was not a generous victor.

Joan groped her way out of the room. She had no answer. Neither had she any pride . . . nothing . . . but love, for Bill . . .

There wasn't a minute to lose. They had to get the eleven o'clock boat to connect with the Overland train from San Francisco. Evvie wanted to be there early. She had her stiff black hat, and her new veil with the black dots, on already.

"Hurry! Hurry!" she called, impatiently. "Move! Dear me, but you're slow!"

Joan's numb fingers were all thumbs. When she forced her tired feet into the brown oxfords that she was so proud of yesterday, she could hardly tie the laces.

The little stiff white shirt-waist, looking like a younger sister of Aunt Evvie's stiffer one, rattled starchily over her shoulders, and she couldn't find the collar button.

"Hurry! Joan—I declare you're trying to be exasperating!" But Joan only looked at her vacantly, and in the end Evvie had to put the new round straw hat on her head, and button the square little tweed coat over the white waist.

They got into Evvie's chugging car. Healey was leaning out of the kitchen window, wiping red hands on a blue apron. She waved a skinny wrist. But Aunt Babe, on the front porch, felt too ill to wave. She just stood there, watching the car disappear down the hill. She had made up her mind to have another "nervous spell."

The little brown trunk that had been Grandfather Van Fleet's had gone on ahead. There was just the little handbag for Joan to carry.

Aunt Evvie parked the car, took the key out carefully, and dropped it into her purse. "Come, come—the ferry is in. Joan—move!"

So they got on the ferry. They passed Alcatraz Island . . . that bleak prison on the rocks above the sea. "Where are the other prisons—for people who aren't soldiers or sailors?" she asked very low.

"I don't know—now you stop moaning about that!"

They passed the docks, where foreign ships lay moored with cables, that glittered in the sun. Now they were passing the river boats,

Miss Reba Harney, Trenton, N. J., was visiting friends here over the week-end.

The Langhorne Junior Sorosis will present a play entitled "Seven Chances," at the Langhorne Country Club, June 16th. Also dancing beginning at 10.30.

The anniversary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Langhorne M. E. Church will take place June 6th. An excellent program has been prepared.

Mrs. Charles Beidler entertained the children of her kindergarten at a "May Party" on Friday afternoon. A maypole dance, singing, and other exercises constituted the program. The main feature of the afternoon was a "Pet Show," introducing dogs, cats, rabbits, and a turtle. The children receiving prizes for their pets were: Henry Fowler, Harriet White, Bobby Holland, Buddy Beidler and Dick Miller. After the show, refreshments were served.

to their credit. Cornwells was represented by patrol leader William Amick, Dedrick, Foster, Johnson, Osborne, Henderson, States, and Vandegrift. A second patrol was present from Cornwells, entered in Class D, and taking third place with a total of 544 points.

Bristol No. 7 took first place in Class D with a safe margin by securing 826 points. They were represented by patrol leader Oscar A. Booz, Bailey, Brehart, Heath, Hart, and Smith.

The camporee is divided into four competing classes. The first three are for patrols that are groups of four or more Scouts who function as a patrol in their Scout troops. The last class is for any groups of patrols or members of any troop who combine together to form a patrol for competition in the camporee. The difference in the first three classes is on the basis of having certain specified required items of equipment.

Class A results: First place, Chalfont No. 1, 855 points; second, Cornwells No. 1, 843 points; third, Doylestown No. 2, 838 points; honorable mention, Langhorne No. 1, 791 points.

Class B: First, Riegelsville No. 1, 844 points; second, Chalfont No. 1, 835; third, Morrisville No. 3, 800; honorable mention, Doylestown No. 2, 770.

Class C: First, Trevoze No. 1, 759; second, Langhorne No. 1, 733; third, Milford No. 1, 709; honorable mention, Quakertown No. 2, 708.

Class D: First, Bristol No. 7, 826; second, Yardley No. 1; third, Cornwells No. 1, 544.

Judging in the various problems was done by Deputy Commissioner Harry Oliver, Andalusia; Chairman of Bristol No. 1 troop committee Herbert Pettit, Sr., and Scoutmasters Howard Antrobus, Morrisville No. 3; George Dorfner of Doylestown No. 2, and William Grunert, Bristol No. 1; Assistant Scoutmasters William Adams, Riegelsville; Edward Baumeister, South Langhorne; Lewis Fetherolf, Milford; Herbert Pettit, Jr., Bristol No. 1; Clyde Siegle, Riegelsville; Harold Washburn, Morrisville No. 3; Scouts William Carlin, Chalfont; Walter Carwithen, Jr., Doylestown No. 2, and Edward Fell, Jr., Doylestown No. 2, assisted in various capacities. Scoutmaster Howard Antrobus, Morrisville No. 3, has a summer home at turn of the road as one goes up to the tower. Each year Scoutmaster Antrobus has been a congenial host to the camporee Scouts and Scouters. Scout Executive William F. Livermore directed the camporee, and served as scorer.

The question of raising silver prices will also come in for extended discussion in connection with gold problems.

The European experts are generally opposed to any form of bimetalism on the ground that silver is unsuitable for inclusion in metallic reserves of Central Banks because it has no fixed price, but the attention recently directed to the silver problem by President Roosevelt's suggestion that silver might be used to pay part of Europe's war debts to the United States will bring the silver question into a new light.

Some action will doubtless be considered for increasing the price of silver, and means may be found for improving the marketing of the metal by producers and currency authorities. Regarding commercial relations with silver-using countries, notably China, most of the financial authorities connected with the preliminary work of the conference have been of the opinion that a general rise in commodity prices would serve trade interests more than a rise in the price of silver.

HE TAKES IT

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(INS)—John Seftner, fourteen months old, proved he "could take it" recently. He fell thirty feet from a third story window and landed right side up with nary a scratch. His mother had left his high chair near an open window.

BRAINS HUMBLD

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(INS)—It's an old, old game and even a Phi Beta Kappa is no match for a good player. Marshall Kruse, Chicago, told police here that he met two men here, engaged in a coin matching game and lost $7, his watch and a Phi Beta Kappa key.

From Teeth to Tennis

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

MEMORIAL or Decoration Day as many of us still call it, begins the out-door season. Fresh air encourages an appetite to raid the picnic hamper.

Picnic meals need not be sandwich meals when the markets offer all sorts of interesting fresh and prepared foods at prices to suit even lean pocketbooks.

Potato salad and deviled eggs or cheese offer good cold fare, while frankfurters or bacon and spaghetti in tomato sauce cooked over an open fire are warming. Peanut butter and a box of crackers will help to fill up the youngsters.

Among particularly good buys for this week-end's marketing are new potatoes, carrots, and cantaloupes. The cantaloupe season is just beginning.

The Quaker Maid Kitchen has planned three interesting menus which make use of foods which are plentiful and in season.

Low Cost Dinner
Roast Shoulder of Veal
Browned New Potatoes
Buttered Carrots
Bread and Butter
Snow Pudding Custard Sauce

Medium Cost Dinner

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy, or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two gallons of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two gallons of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle, vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

NEW EVENING FROCKS ARE SO FRILLY THEY STAND LITTLE WEAR

By Alice Langelier

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS—(INS)—An era of extravagance is in order for evening fashions. Frilly and fearfully frilly are fragile frocks intended for no more than two or three fashionable evenings. Crisp, transparent organza is extravagantly shirred and pleated, so frail that they can stand only one big night out in Paris or any other gay capital.

Delightfully frilly frocks of white silk organdie are banded in a sweet old-fashioned way with light blue taffeta. Ruching is a big feature of evening extravagance and many evening gowns show the high shoulder effect in doubled capes of crisp lace.

Maggy Rouff is making the widest white tulle frock imaginable, with flounced circular skirt over a finely knife-pleated underdress and accompanied by a bolero with all its sleeve frills turned upwards.

For evening, Mirande takes us back to the Mauve Decade with ruffles and short trains, starched laces, organdies, rep, marquisette and taffeta trim. There is a very dull black velvet combined with red lacquered draped sleeves.

Extravagant evening dresses come in exquisite bead work, studded sparsely in beautiful patterns over the fine fabric. Chanel does this on a white flax chiffon, with the crinkles held fast by tiny crystal beads.

A white satin gown has an extravagant sash of Virgin-blue satin twined round and round the waist and falling down the side of the skirt. Over it is an ermine scarf which trails on the floor.

REDUCE TAXES

NAMPA, Idaho—(INS)—Tax reductions of about $10,976,000 have been accomplished by Idaho governmental units within the last three years, according to a report by the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce. In that same period the ability of the Idaho people to pay taxes has decreased nearly four times as fast, R. E. Shepherd, president of the state chamber, declared.

QUEEN EXHIBITS

AMSTERDAM—(INS)—For the first time in history a reigning queen has sent one of her own pictures to an exhibition of paintings.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, long an enthusiast in amateur art, has sent to the spring exhibition of the Hague Society of Painters a painting entitled "A Landscape in Holland."

BRAVE WOMAN

BRIDGEPORT, Conn.—(INS)—When her husband fell ill, Mrs. Helen Royce, 35, jumped into the driver's seat of his U. S. mail truck and made the daily rural route from this city to Danbury and Newtown. She armed herself with a revolver, left her three children at home, and never was behind time.

LOST 40 POUNDS ON DOCTOR'S ADVICE

"I'm a user of Kruschen Salts as a reducing remedy and can say they are fine. Have lost more than 40 lbs. in the past year. Am gradually reducing as my doctor advises." Miss Bertha Waldo, Haman, N. Dak. (Oct. 30, '32).

Once a day take Kruschen Salts—one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water first thing every morning. Besides losing ugly fat SAFELY you'll gain in health and physical attractiveness—constipation, gas and acidity will cease to bother—you'll feel younger—more active—full of ambition—clear skin—sparkling eyes.

A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at any drugstore in the world—but demand and get Kruschen and if one bottle doesn't joyfully please you—money back.—(Adv.)

THE ROMANCE OF SPICES

"Nose, nose, nose, nose!" And who gave thee that jolly red nose?
Siamint, ginger, nutmegs and cloves;
And that gave me my jolly red nose."

When you buy spices from your grocer have you ever stopped to think of the tale of adventure behind that little box or tin which you secure so conveniently?

The story of spices reads like a romance. From time immemorial spices have been highly prized; they have been the cause of wars and have aroused the ambition of discoverers; they have been presented to Kings and paid to them as tribute, so valuable were they and so highly esteemed.

Few persons realize the important part spices have played in the world's history. Spices were not always obtained so easily as at present. Nowadays for a few pennies enough pepper, cinnamon and ginger can be bought to last for months, but

In years gone by they were true luxuries. Spices were one of the very important things that Columbus had in mind when he sought backing for his voyage at the courts of Italy and Spain. In his day spices were transported by sailing vessels from the East Indies, then by way of camels through the bandit-infested deserts of the Near East—long, expensive, uncomfortable and perilous journeys.

There is a good reason why spices then commanded fabulous prices, but today six or eight varieties are found in millions of kitchens. Spices assist digestion and put real joy into eating. A meal may look tasty, the table may be properly set, and the food may be fine and wholesome, yet the real sunshine of the meal is in seasoning and the spices.

Dishes tastefully prepared and possessing the fragrance and piquancy of spices tend to inspire a feeling of well-being and to surround the meal with a pleasant atmosphere so essential and yet so often lacking at the table.

Many housewives who have given spices a little thought have found that the less expensive cuts of meats, well seasoned and well cooked, find just as much favor with the family as steaks, chops and other expensive cuts of meat. The food bill may thus be reduced and economy practiced by having on hand a variety of spices and using them in the many ways in which they appeal to the appetite. A chuck or rump roast is delicious when sprinkled with salt, pepper, chopped parsley, onion salt, and celery salt, before it is put into the oven. After that a few bay leaves, small slices of carrots and a sprinkling of mace can be put on the top. Roast in hot oven for twenty minutes, then reduce the heat and cook until tender.

The uses of spices in our food are many and very essential in adding zest to the meal. Cloves stuck into a ham which is baked in cider will greatly improve the taste. Cinnamon imparts a pleasing taste to apples, pears, squash, and sauces. Sage is added to sausage meat, chopped beef, and stuffings. Bay leaves are particularly tasteful in stewed tomatoes, soups, and beef stew. Mustard is not only used on the table and in pickling, but may also be combined with minced ham or tongue for sandwich fillings. Nutmeg is one of the more pronounced spices, and should be used in small quantities so as not to cover up the delicate natural flavor of the food.

Truly, spice is the variety of life when used to the full extent of its possibility in the home.

SUNBURNED, NOT FOR MENU, JUST THE LATEST IN COLORS

By Alice Langellier
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS—Sunburned-red is one of the season's smartest shades, a mysterious melange of brown, beige, black and russet-red which many chic women are choosing this spring, especially those who are making brown their color theme.

A ruddy brown crepe with triangular incrustations at the bodice in orange and beige has a three-quarters length coat to go with it and a brown suit has a cowl-draped blouse of yellow plaid crepe.

Green in all its shades, from lichen to spinach to a la creme and including apple, lettuce and chilly lime-green are predominant in all the collections. Cool navy-blues combined with lighter, dusty tones and very cold-looking stone greys are favored by those who wish to keep and look cool this summer.

Molyneux is making use of some lovely blues and rose-leaf pinks, sunset-yellows and various shades of orange. Special English muslins, as soft as silk, are very effective in pale yellow and rose-leaf pink designs.

Paquin uses the season's favorite colours, grey and beige in tricky creations. A gray wool-silk and Jersey street-dress has ladder effect applique of misty-blue crepe at the shoulders and upper sleeves. And then there are some lovely lace gowns in burgundy, brown, royal-blue, beige and black.

PLAY-OFF GAME TODAY, BRISTOL-FALLSINGTON

By Oscar Corn
(B. H. S. Press Representative)

As the Bristol High ball team and the Fallsington High team are tied for the title of the Lower Bucks County League, Division A, they will meet in a play-off game today at George School, a neutral field.

The winner of this game will play the winner of Division B of the Lower Bucks County League.

Yesterday at George School the play-off game was cancelled in the middle of the fifth inning on account of rain. Bristol was leading, 3-1, when the game was stopped.

Let's have everybody at George School, cheering the team on, for a victory over the Black and Orange of Fallsington.

NEW LINE-UP ARRANGED FOR TONIGHT BY THE A. A.

Bristol A. A. will present a new line-up in meeting the Odd Fellows tonight on Sullivan's field in a Lower Bucks County League game.

"Henny" Mellor, formerly with the Hibernians, will do the catching with "Eddie" Sullivan, hurling. First base will be guarded by "Henny" Donahar, of West Chester State Teachers' College. "Shorty" Stromp will move to second with Sam Jackson on short-stop. "Jim" Massilla will be at the hot corner.

In the outfield will be either "Bill" Pine, Paul Barrett, "Niggie" Brusha, or "Mike" Riola.

Game will begin at 6:30 p. m.

Junior Baseball Nine To Open Season, Saturday

LANGHORNE, June 1.—The Junior Baseball Team of the Jesse W. Soby Post, 148, American Legion, will open its season at Parkside, Saturday, when at 3:15 p. m., the nine will cross bats with the Junior team from Parkside. The second game for the locals will be a home game, being scheduled at South Langhorne, June 7th, at 6:15 p. m. At that time the locals will meet Newtown; and the first ball will be thrown out by Frank Whitman, president of Langhorne Lions Club. The manager of the Soby Post Junior team is Harry Friedrich.

The Soby Post is arranging for a carnival to be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, of the last week of July and first week of August.

GAME TONIGHT

The Bristol Twilight League game scheduled for last night between St. Ann's A. A. and the Jefferson A. C. will be played tonight on St. Ann's field.

DO YOU KNOW THAT . . . Ralph Heist who played guard on the Bristol A. A. football team about eight years ago . . . is one of the police officers on a towing car in Philadelphia.

We met him busy at work on Broad street the other day initiating a reluctant citizen into the secrets of the "Six-Dollar Club" . . . When we mentioned Bristol his face lit up in a big smile and showered me with many questions about the old town.

He wanted to know how many of the fellows who played on the team with him, were . . . and if we ever met Joe Holmes since he left Bristol . . . When informed that we hadn't seen Joe for years he said that Holmes was as big as a house and quite successful in the ice business in Toms River, N. J.

Heist who is no shrinking violet himself said that he enjoyed playing football in this borough better than anywhere he had ever played . . . and wanted to be remembered to everyone.

Another former Bristol lad who was a great football player on the old A. A. team years ago was a visitor in town over the week-end . . . John Carr, who will be remembered for his plunging, fearless tactics on the gridiron, spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of Dudley Bell.

Carr is now a corporal in the Pennsylvania State Police and is stationed in Hazleton . . . His unit won the championship pistol shooting contest held at Wilburtha, N. J., last Saturday against state police teams from all the Eastern States.

The Mauler Can Still Take It

There's still a lot of wallop left in the Old Massa, Jack Dempsey, former champion of the world, who is shown in a spirited exhibition bout with Max Schmeling, also an ex-champ, at the latter's training camp at Swanano, N. When Legs Go Wobbly

By BURNLEY

Travis JACKSON'S CAREER MAY BE ENDED BY HIS BAD KNEES!

HORNSBY

ROG CAN STILL HIT—BUT HIS LEGS ARE WEAK!

WHEN a baseball player's legs begin to trouble him it is a sure sign that the end of his playing career is not very far off, unless the trouble is of a kind that can be mended. Strong underpinning is especially necessary in the case of infielders, who have to lunge after sizzling grounders and screaming liners every afternoon throughout the hot summer months. The last thing a veteran ball player loses is his batting eye. Men like Hornsby, Ruth and Travis Jackson can still hit as well as ever, but their legs are no longer as strong and speedy as of yore, which makes them a liability rather than an asset or the defense.

In the cases of Hornsby and Jackson this weakness in the field becomes especially glaring, because they are infielders, who have to be constantly running and bending, twisting and turning, in their efforts to stop base hits. On the other hand, Ruth, playing in the outfield, has more of a chance to rest his aging dogs.

eran ball player can still hit very well but has slowed up so greatly in the field that he lets many hits get past him, it becomes a problem for the manager to decide whether the player's batting ability offsets the defensive weakness caused by his unreliable underpinning. Infielders with ailing legs like Hornsby and Jackson are benched in spite of their great hitting ability, while brilliant defensive shortstops, such as Durocher and Blondy Ryan, can hold down regular jobs, although they can't hit the size of their collars.

Durocher, recently acquired by the Cardinals, always finishes the season with one of the puniest batting marks in the league, but his marvelous work in the field makes him one of the most highly regarded of National League infielders. Waite Hoyt, I think it was, once tabbed the gabby Leo as "the all-American rocher gets along very well, thank you. Fielding certainly seems to be valued over hitting in his case, at least.

WOMEN'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE MOTOR CAR

There is some doubt that people care to hear very much about what goes on under the hoods of their cars.

The driver knows that "driving qualities" are not accidental; they are put there. How the manufacturer creates or evolves those results may not interest him. He judges entirely by the results he gets in driving.

Well, it is not essential to talk "shop"; let us talk Results. Smoothness. Drive the Ford V-8 and you will find that the engine runs with surpassing smoothness, due to its design and the extra precise methods of its manufacture.

Power. There it is, 75 horsepower (we could say 80) at the drive-shaft for the driver's use. With less weight to pull around, the mettle of this car—its life-like response—is rather remarkable.

Economy. Our V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gasoline than any car we have made. Mileage is partly a matter of individual driving, but under average conditions the Ford V-8 does 17 to 20 miles a gallon. Of course, car economy is not only a matter of fuel. Ford V-8 has that too, but it is also economical in the complete sense—initial cost, operation, maintenance.

Appearance. This is woman's contribution. The motor car must not only be useful, but also good-looking. View the Ford V-8 and you will not need our comment on its fine appearance.

Comfort. This also is woman's concern. In 30 years she changed the motor car from a wagon to a coach. Comfort is a quality made up of numerous ingredients. There is no comfort without a quiet, smooth-running engine. We have all the other ingredients too,—color, good taste, quality, ease, safety, roominess and convenience.
